From Caroline

Hey, Everyone,
Happy Monday!

Hope you're all doing well on this beautiful Autumn morning? That was quite a windstorm yesterday! We awoke to a minor drama with a crew from the City dealing with a sizable downed tree in the neighbor's front garden. Luckily it narrowly missed the house and no major damage. But it's quite a hive of activity out there right now (which I confess is fun for me as I am quite partial to watching diggers and chain saws in action - maybe I was a construction worker in a previous life :-)

However, I can't spend all morning gawping out the window, it IS a workday after all so there are things to do, places to go, people to see...

But first, a few other quick items:

- Fall Festival is coming up this weekend, virtual-style. Check out the schedule on the Regional website! There are sessions planned with some very interesting guest speakers so you might want to tune in while you're sitting by the fire?
- Over the last couple of weeks I had the chance to preview - and enjoy immensely - Konnie-with-a-K's latest Chorus scrapbook. It's just fabulous! I'm astounded at how much she managed to pack in there, even since our last pre-Bako rehearsal. It will be a historic record of how we all navigated through, and stuck together, during this crazy discombobulated year! Let Konnie know if you'd like to see her latest compilation and we can arrange to get it to you. Bravo, Konnie!

- Had a lovely phone chat with our beautiful Andrea Paris yesterday - she was busy celebrating her birthday, is doing well and misses us all.

That's it for now! Now the Election is finally over, I'm thinking I can start by catching up on my "You have to see this movie" list, and resume "normal" life - whatever THAT was :-) Plan A!

Have a lovely day - see you tonight on Zoom!

MONDAY NIGHT LIVE'S NEW SONG TONIGHT

Tonight at our Zoom meeting Monday Night Live will share our new song with you. We each recorded our part of the song separately. Then my brother, Steve, put all the parts together to make a recording. It was no easy job because our recordings didn't match up quite right due to recording issues. However, after many hours of work, he was able to make a recording that actually sounds like we are singing right next to each other! It is not perfect, but it was definitely worth the effort. We learned a lot from this experience. We hope you will be able to join us tonight on Zoom if you have the chance.
