Hi, Everyone!

Are you ready for Halloween? Like everything else this year, the traditional spooky celebrations will be unusual, to say the least. I can't imagine there'll be many Trick or Treaters out and about. But it does seem like the neighbors have worked extra-hard on their outdoor decorations, possibly because they're home more? Or because they just want to have a little extra fun?

I tell you, walking the dog is quite the trauma now with the entire block festooned with shrieking ghouls, rubber bats, random green-eyed skeletons, and giant tarantulas dangling from every tree branch. Add to that an assortment of theatrical smoke, lighting and sound effects and it's enough to make you run screaming into the night!

I think our house may be the only one devoid of any decoration, although, in the spirit of the season, this creaky old place does have a few actual spider webs (with hairy-legged inhabitants), a hooting owl and a beady-eyed rat or two. All more shudder-worthy than the artificial kind, so I think we're in good shape :-)

Tonight we'll celebrate Halloween together on Zoom - feel free to come in costume (just think, you only have to worry about how you look from the waist-up!) Not compulsory but if you're feeling a little witch-like, tonight's your chance...just sayin'.

Not the best segue but did any of you watch the Coronet Club Show on Saturday night? It was an amazing cavalcade of quartets plus the fabulous CC Chorus! I spied our own Queen Jan sparkling away up there on the International stage risers along with hubby, Dick, singing up there too as one of the "Queens' Men". Fabulous!

That's it for now - hope to see you tonight!
